Class Objectives

Create a collaborative, inquiry-based community of engaged, reflective, and self-directed learners involved in learning, discussing, understanding, and presenting on the dynamics of career counseling.

Required Text

Tang, M. (2019). Career development and counseling: Theory and practice in a multicultural world. Sage.

Required Assessment Tools

Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) and Strong Interest Inventory (SII) – a link will be provided by the instructor.

Recommended Readings:

My teaching style is rooted in responding to the needs of the class. This means adapting to the questions, conversations, and processes that develop in real-time. There may be other readings or learning materials assigned as themes emerge or events unfold. On Moodle, there are also suggested readings and additional resources; these are marked as additional materials and are not required for the course but are instead intended to support your clinical development.

Instructional Process

This course will function in a seminar/collaborative learning format. You are expected to actively and thoughtfully contribute to discussions. Students are responsible for leading text discussions and case studies, as well as participating in counseling practice with fellow students.

Course Evaluations

Instructors must require students to complete course evaluations during class time following established guidelines of the Graduate School of Education and Counseling.

Course Expectations

Departmental Attendance Policy:

Class attendance is expected and required. Missing more than ten percent of class time may result in failure to complete the class. This would be 4.5 hours of a 45-hour class (3 credits), or 3.0 hours for a 30-hour class (2 credits). In cases of extreme hardship, a grade of incomplete may be given for an assignment or the entire course, at the discretion of the instructor. In such cases, the work to be submitted in order to remove the incomplete must be documented appropriately and stated deadlines met.

General Policies:

This course adheres to the general policies outlined in the catalog and Student Handbook of the Lewis & Clark Graduate School of Education and Counseling. In addition, this course will follow the COVID-19 safety protocols as established by the college.

Disability Services Statement:

If you have a disability that may impact your academic performance, you may request accommodations by submitting documentation to the Student Support Services Office in Albany Quadrangle (503-768-7192). This contact is the necessary first step for receiving appropriate accommodations and support services. After you have submitted documentation and filled out paperwork for the current semester requesting accommodations, staff in that office will notify me of the accommodations for which you are eligible. Please discuss with me which accommodations will best support your learning in this class.

Attendance:

If you need to miss a class, email me at least one hour prior to the class start time. One absence is allowed with prior notification, in accordance with department policy. Two absences may result in a failing grade for the course. You may be assigned additional work for an excused absence. Class starts at 9am; please be on time and ready to participate.

Participation:

This course is heavily participatory and requires students to engage in both dyadic and experiential training methods. Students are expected to attend class in order to participate in technique practice and exploring the topics covered in class. It is also expected that students have done the assigned readings prior to that class meeting. Participation will be evaluated on your active engagement and the quality of your contributions to class and group discussions.

Devices:

All electronic devices are to be turned off, silenced, and out of sight during class unless explicitly needed for a class activity. You will have an opportunity to check your devices during breaks.

Assignment Evaluation:

Your work will be evaluated on depth, effort, professional quality, completeness, and timeliness. Please take advantage of electronic tools to check spelling and grammar, but don't underestimate the value of a final proofreading! Punctuation is also important and may alter the meaning or interpretation of your work if not used appropriately. Citations should be in APA format, following the styles indicated in APA's Publication Manual, 7th Edition. Late assignments will be accepted with prior approval; however, your assignment grade will be lowered at the rate of one letter grade per day for late assignments.

Assignment Submission:

All assignments will be submitted through Moodle unless indicated on the assignment sheet. Please name your files using the following convention:

FirstInitialLastName_AssignmentTitle.pdf

So, if Chris Smith was submitting the Intervention Research Paper, they would submit a file named:

CSmith_CareerAutobiography.pdf

Professionalism:

As a future professional counselor, you are expected to maintain a capacity for openness to points of view, theories, experiences, and perspectives that are different from your own and to demonstrate the ability to engage in thoughtful, open dialogue with people who carry or hold other perspectives. You are expected to behave in ways that show respect for the other person and their point of view. You will work to understand other perspectives and demonstrate the ability to balance your own worldviews and judgements with accountability to professional knowledge and behavior.

Career Autobiography Paper

Due 9/27 (25 pts)

In this paper, you will consider some of the events that have influenced your personal development. What people, places and events have been important in shaping your life?

In many ways, our lives reflect the events that have happened to us. Some events force us in one direction, while others may cause us to resist and move in an opposite direction. When planning your future, it is important to take a thoughtful look at your past. You are invited to consider the ways your history has influenced your view of your future.

Use the My Career Story Workbook to guide your work.

1. Think about the values and attitudes that matter most to you. Consider how you formed these beliefs—in what ways did societal forces influence them? How does your unique social context apply to your attitudes and values? Consider your gender, race, and ethnicity—how may these forces have influenced your direction?
2. The issue of social/economic class is important in shaping our understanding of the cultural context of career development. Discuss the importance of social class in shaping your understanding of cultural context and why this understanding is important in career counseling.
3. How will your awareness of these influences shape your counseling work? Where do you imagine yourself working after graduation—in a clinic? Private or group practice? What populations do you see yourself working with?
4. “The meaning of work, the value placed on it, and the expectations about who should perform what types of work reflect the society in which work is organized” (Fouad & Byars-Winston, 2005, p.223). Do you agree or disagree with this statement? Explain why or why not.

Your paper should be no more than 4-5 pages, double spaced, 11-12pt font, 1" margins.

Career Intake Form, Client Interview, and Case Note

Due 10/18 (25 pts)

In this two-part exercise, you will develop an intake form and use this tool to guide an intake interview with your partner.

Career Intake Form (Complete by 10/11 for use in your Career Interview). Include questions that will identify:

Presenting concerns (career & other)

Demographic information, including visible and non-visible social locations and identities (i.e. race, nationality, ethnicity, class, religion or spiritual beliefs, biological sex, gender identity, sexual/affectional orientation, ability status(es), age)

Family and social influences, life roles, physical & mental health information, etc.

Career Interview: Using the intake form you have developed, conduct an intake interview with your partner. Interviews will be conducted during class time on 10/11.

Case Note: Prepare a “case note” summary of your intake interview for me to read as your “supervisor.” Your summary should be no more than one single-spaced page. You will submit both a blank version of your Intake Form and your completed case note summary based on your interview on 10/18.

Career Counseling Assessment & Interpretation

Due 11/1 (40 pts)

Using what you learned about your partner from both their intake session and from the results of their Meyers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) and Strong Interest Inventory (SII), you will provide them with an assessment interpretation session.

Address how these inventories help you guide their thinking about your “client’s” career path. How can your interpretation support them in clarifying their goals? How does what you both learn from the assessments clarify or broaden what you learned in the intake interview?

Interpretation sessions will be conducted during the week of 10/25. You will be responsible for finding time for your group to get together to conduct these interviews either online or in person.

After the interpretation, you will write a 2-3 page paper (double-spaced, 11-12pt font, 1” margins) that addresses the following questions:

What was your experience in the counselor role providing an interpretation of results?

What was your experience in the client role receiving your partner’s interpretation?

What is the value to both counselor and client in using these types of assessments?

What are the challenges?

Did your results change or clarify anything about your future goals? What did they reveal to you about your interests? Personality? Values? Skills? Strengths? How will this information be useful to you as you pursue your career as a counselor?

Career Counseling Topic Presentation & Resource List

(40 pts)

In partnership with class colleagues, you will present about career counseling considerations for specific populations. Following your presentation, you will lead a discussion of the topic. You may use textbook content as a starting point, but you are expected to bring in additional outside research, your group’s interpretation of the subject, and to demonstrate critical thinking about your assigned subject area.

For this assignment, you may design an activity, present and discuss a specific case, or develop your own discussion questions to guide the class. Plan to take about 1 hour of class time.

In addition, your group will prepare a resource list of at least 5 career-related resources that you would suggest to a client from this population. Resources may include: online articles, podcasts, books or workbooks, and self-assessment/self-discovery tools. Provide a brief description of the resource and be prepared to explain why you would suggest it to your future client during your presentation.

You will submit your resource list and any presentation materials, as well as links to relevant research, on the day of your presentation. These resource lists will be collected on Moodle and shared with the class as a resource for you to use in your own future career as a counselor.

Each student in your group needs to show leadership during the presentation. As part of the assignment, you will submit an assessment of your contribution and the contribution of your group members to the process of developing and presenting this assignment to the instructor via email.

Topics will be assigned on the first day of class. See Course Schedule for due dates.
