CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Basic theoretical assumptions of art therapy therapeutic relationships, review and practice of helping skills with an overview of social and cultural contexts, types of practice, supervision, ethical principles, and professional orientation. Prerequisites: AT 510.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Basic Art Therapy Counseling theories and methods are explored, including basic and advanced helping skills and processes. The dynamics and complexities of the therapeutic relationship are emphasized, and the impact of the work on the therapist. The complex relationship between the properties of varied media/art making processes, responsible clinical assessment/treatment, and the therapeutic relationship are studied in this class.

CAAHEP STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

SLO-B - Distinguish among the therapeutic benefits of a variety of art processes and media, strategies and interventions, and their applicability to the treatment process for individuals, groups, and families.

SLO-C - Recognize that Art Therapy, from a multicultural perspective, takes into consideration the specific values, beliefs, and actions influenced by a client's race, ethnicity, nationality, gender, religion, socioeconomic status, political views, sexual orientation, geographic region, physical capacity or disability, and historical or current experiences within the dominant culture.

SLO-H - Recognize clients' use of imagery, creativity, symbolism, and metaphor as a valuable means for communicating challenges and strengths and support clients' use of art-making for promoting growth and well-being.
SLO-J - Apply principles of human development, artistic and creative development, human sexuality, gender identity development, family life cycle, and psychopathology, to the assessment and treatment of clients.
SLO-L - Continuously deepen self-understanding through personal growth experiences, reflective practice, and personal art-making to strengthen a personal connection to the creative process, assist in self-awareness, promote well-being, and guide professional practice.
SLO-N - Recognize the impact of oppression, prejudice, discrimination, and privilege on access to mental health care, and develop responsive practices that include collaboration, empowerment, advocacy, and social justice action.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Specific objectives for this course address these Student Learning outcomes by helping students:

1. Identify the relationship between art therapy approaches and theories from psychology, counseling (a.K.2)
2. Demonstrate understanding of therapeutic utility and psychological properties of a wide range of art processes and materials (i.e., traditional materials, recyclable materials, crafts) in the selection of processes and materials for delivery of art therapy services (c.S.3)
3. Utilize art materials and processes within the context of building the therapeutic relationship (i.S.1)
4. Describe theory of specific properties and effects of art processes and materials informed by current research such as Expressive Therapies Continuum (c.K.1)
5. Value the benefits of student/therapist reflective art-making to inform clinical practice (d.A.3)

LEWIS & CLARK GRADUATE SCHOOL ESSENTIAL POLICIES

This course adheres to the general policies outlined in the catalog and student handbook of the Lewis & Clark Graduate School of Education and Counseling. This includes full adherence to the following policies:

- Nondiscrimination: go.lclark.edu/gsec-nondiscrimination;

- Standards for professional student conduct and academic integrity: go.lclark.edu/gsec-conduct; • Sexual misconduct: go.lclark.edu/titleIX.

If you have any questions regarding these policies, please speak to your instructor for clarification.

DISABILITY SERVICES STATEMENT

If you have a disability that may impact your academic performance, you may request accommodations by meeting with the Office of Student Accessibility staff and submitting documentation on the Office of Student Accessibility website. Email access@lclark.edu with any additional questions or concerns.

TEACHING METHODS

A variety of teaching methods will be used during this course in order to achieve the above objectives. Among those methods will be assigned readings, class discussions, experiential activities, and lectures. Students will watch video clips, engage in group learning tasks, and participate in role-play demonstrations. The use of AI software is not permitted for any assignment or activity in this course without the prior approval of the instructor. Violation of this policy will be considered a violation of the Graduate School's Academic Performance standards.

CTSP DEPARTMENTAL ATTENDANCE POLICY

Class attendance is expected and required. Any missed class time will be made up by completing extra assignments designed by the instructor. Missing more than ten percent of class time may result in failure to complete the class. This would be 4.5 hours of a 45-hour class (3 credits), 3.0 hours for a 30-hour class (2 credits) or 1.5 hours for a 15-hour class (1 credit.) In case of extreme hardship and also at the discretion of the instructor, a grade of incomplete may be given for an assignment or the entire course. In such cases, the work to be submitted in order to remove the incomplete must be documented appropriately and stated deadlines met. Students are expected to be on time to class and tardiness may be seen as an absence that requires make-up work.

DISCLOSURE OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Each student should decide for themselves what information to disclose. Students are advised to be prudent when making self-disclosures. The program cannot guarantee confidentiality of student disclosures given the group environment, although personal comments should be considered private and confidential – and remain only in the classroom – unless an exception to confidentiality applies.

CELL PHONES

Cell phones must be silenced and text messaging is not allowed during class time. If there is an emergency, students may exit the class to use their phone.

CLASS PREPARATION

Students must be aware of weekly expectations and complete all assigned readings prior to class.

REQUIRED TEXTS & READINGS

Weekly readings are to be completed for the day indicated. Students are expected to be prepared to discuss the ideas and concepts. Students are responsible for all of the assigned readings, whether or not they are discussed in class. Please note, there are additional articles assigned throughout the course.

ASSIGNMENTS AND COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Attendance and participation in all classes (10 points)

Class participation	Possible points
Attending all classes and being on time. Giving attention to the instructor and/or other students when they are making a presentation.	4
Demonstrating ability to recognize and use subtle non-verbal communication cues to assess your impact on your peers and participate in class. Demonstrating ability to be open about discussing the impact of your comments on your peers.	1
Coming to class prepared (having read the assignment for the day) Engaging in group discussions with attention and energy. Asking questions of the instructor and/or other students regarding the material examined in that class.	2
Contributing to in-class discussion based on the topics of discussion and the readings assigned. Contributions may include how you feel about the material but merely articulating your feelings is not sufficient. You are expected to put those feelings in context of your thoughts and analysis of the material.	1
Providing examples to support or challenge the issues talked about in class. Making comments or giving observations about topics in the course, especially those that tie in the classroom material to "real world" problems, or try to integrate the content of the course.	1
Communicating with other students and/or the instructor in a respectful fashion. Listening actively. Students will be asked questions related to the course's readings randomly in class by other students and by the instructor. Your participation in small group discussions is also required.	1 underdeveloped.

Professional Format	Lacks required sections, professional language is missing, and not formatted to APA standards.	Information is presented in a well-organized and concise manner although there are missing sections and/or significant grammatical and APA formatting errors.	All required sections are present within a well-organized format; wording is professionally based and concise. Free of writing, grammatical, and APA formatting errors

Observation Paper and Art (35 pts)

Students will write a 4-5 page paper demonstrating the integration of observational and analytical skills; knowledge of theoretical material; individual needs and appropriate methods of intervention; creativity and media used by individuals; clear depiction of individual's behavioral processes. Students will utilize APA formatting for their paper. This project is in 3 parts:

1. Students will select media and themes to offer one person who volunteers to help the student with this school project. Students must maintain the person's confidentiality. They must obtain a release and not identify the person by name. The goal is to stimulate creativity and artistic expression while providing a safe holding environment. Students should sit with the person while the art is being created (virtual engagement approved), engaging in careful observation of the person's creative process as they begin, develop, and complete the art. If possible, the student should take detailed written notes of the person's process when observing their behavior, verbalization, affect, use of media, development of the image, and specific times when significant changes take place in the art. Otherwise, they should take notes immediately afterwards.
2. In a quiet place, the student should situate themselves with the art in front of them utilizing the same media selection that was offered to the person. The student will reproduce the art by referring to their process notes, working at the same pace and developing the art in the same manner as observed. This may take several attempts. The student should stay attentive to their own feelings throughout this process.
3. Based on the process notes, recollections, the person's art, and the student's own experience in reproducing the art, the student will write up to a 5-page paper discussing how the person's art processes, behavior, comments, and art product appeared to reflect the person's sense of self, including observations of strengths. The student will explain why the medium or media was offered, along with the theme chosen and appropriateness of those choices. If, after reproducing the art and reflecting on the process, the student would change their selection, they need to explain why. Student will describe the next directive and medium (media) that would be offered to this person, explaining their rationale for these choices. Conciseness and depth of content are valued. Integration of practical experience and theory from this course's readings and class work is expected. Reference pages are not included in the 5-page limit, minimum of 3 sources.
*Note: The student is not functioning as a therapist; however, they are expected to make theoretically based choices regarding prompt, art media, processes, and themes. The student will explain their reasoning from a clinical perspective based on class content.

	Not Met 0 pts	Proficient 5 pts	Accomplished 10 pts
Observation and Analytical Skills	Minimal reflection regarding process and product in relationship to art therapy.	Showed a basic understanding of the interplay between process and product.	Demonstration of thoughtful reflection and analysis of process and product and how it relates to art therapy engagement.
Creative Process	Minimal to no exploration of creative process and use of media.	Creative process is explored. Some insights regarding process, media are evident however not fully developed.	Thorough exploration of creative processes, methods, media, and how interventions impact engagement.
Empathetic Understanding	Lacks insight into client's process and behavior.	Exploration of art material although minimal insight into client's process and/or behavior.	Demonstrates in-depth insight into client's process and behavior through personal exploration of creative process.

	Not Met 0 pt	Proficient 3 pts	Accomplished 5 pts

Art Project, Reflection Paper, In Class Presentation: (40 points)

Creative in-depth involvement and thoughtful analysis of process and product. Integration of theoretical material presented in this course with personal insights related to creative processes, and the therapist/client relationships. Beginning exploration of countertransference.

The student will create art in three parts using a wide range of mixed media and material, in order to explore the theme of the therapist/client relationship. Three separate aspects of the helping relationship are to be explored utilizing these prompts:

1. "someone who needs help"
2. "personal feelings about people who need help"
3. "self-perception as a helper"

After completing these prompts, the student will reflect on both the product and the process for each, considering the art in relation to their studies of the helping relationship. The student will reflect on the pieces from the perspective of their growth as a student therapist, including challenges and strengths. The will consider and discuss the following:

1. Media/ Materials: selection process; physical reactions and responses to the media; uses or limitations of media in the development of the piece; changes, adjustments and transformations the art went through as it developed.
2. Physical art piece: what is actually seen in the visual language of the art - form, color, spatial relationships, relative sizes, positioning, color, texture, etc; as well as the visual relationship between the pieces created.
3. Creative process/emotional response: discussing the struggles, chaos/control, resistance and sublimation - all in relation to self as a student therapist and understanding of the helping relationship; exploring any inconsistencies between intentions from the onset to the final art forms.

The student must relate all of this to the assigned themes of the art pieces created, to themselves as a student therapist and to their learning about the nature of the helping relationship. What does the art and personal reflections suggest about their present and future work with clients and as their role as a therapist? Students will integrate their learning about countertransference.

Reference page(s) and appendix are not included in the 5-page limit. APA formatting. Be concise. The student is expected to bring the art to class and be prepared to briefly discuss their process, product, and insights to their peers.

	Not Met 0 pts	Proficient 5 pts	Accomplished 10 pts
Process and Product Understanding	Minimal to no reflection regarding process and product in relationship to art therapy.	Showed a basic understanding of the interplay between process and product.	Demonstration of thoughtful reflection and analysis of process and product and how it relates to art therapy engagement.
Theoretical Integration	Lacks connection to theoretical material presented in class.	Connections between personal insights and theoretical support are underdeveloped.	Integration of theoretical material learned in course clearly supports student's findings and personal insights
Creative Process	Minimal exploration of creative process and its connection to the therapeutic relationship.	Personal creative process is explored. Some insights regarding process and therapeutic relationships are evident however not fully developed.	Thorough exploration of creative processes and how it impacts therapist/client relationships.
	Not Met 0 pt	Proficient 3 pts	Accomplished 5 pts
